Climate Justice for Future Generations
a discussion with
Tony Oposa Jr.

October 28
12 - 2 p.m.
GW Law School - Lerner Hall
Jacob Burns Moot Court Room

Mr. Oposa is one of Asia's leading voices in the global arena of environmental law and has had a remarkable career as a creative litigator, organizer and activist.

As a result of the over-consumption of the Earth's life-sources, future generations will suffer irreparable damage from the climate crisis. Seeing opportunity in crisis, Mr. Oposa explores new ways of thinking for a 180-degree shift of the economic mindset, from reckless consumption to mindful restoration. He will also discuss a plan to petition the International Court of Justice to protect the rights of future generations.

Light lunch and refreshments will be served.

Please RSVP to confirm your attendance: akistler@ciel.org

CIEL 25 — Defending the right to a healthy planet

This event is part of CIEL's 25th Anniversary Discussion Series

GW Human Rights Law Society HRLS

International Law Society

GW ELA

GW Law

Environmental and Energy Law